

Welcome to the Journey Inward

Come to the edge. We might fall. Come to the edge. It's too high! And they came and he pushed and they flew.—Christopher Lodge

Welcome to my dream.

The Roman historian and politician Gaius Sallustius Crispus (Sallust), circa 41 BCE, proclaimed, “Every man is the architect of his own fortune.” Since I began teaching Remote Viewing in 1998, my dream has been for this online and audio program to manifest. Finally, here it is, and I am very excited for you and the journey you are about to begin.

I assure you that this program of instruction will empower you with a new understanding and awareness of the personal ability and tools you have always had available. Moreover, it will be through the understanding and application of these tools that you will design a new beginning for yourself, transforming, morphing, never looking back to what was, only existing in the moment with the knowledge that you are more than the physical world allows. This program will give you an absolute knowing that you are more than the physical, and with this knowledge, you will manifest your destiny.

I say that these tools are already yours because you have always had this ability to see distantly in space-time. Some of you know this; some of you only suspect it. You may have supposed it all of your life, or you may have recently experienced something that now calls you to explore this notion further. Regardless of your motivation, you are about to embark on one of the most fascinating and awakening journeys of your life—and I am honored to hold the teacher’s chair for this experience.

I will say to you now the words that were spoken to me in 1987 when, as a young special-operations soldier and a former U.S. Army Ranger company commander, I sat anxiously in a chair facing the program manager of a then top-secret military-intelligence collection program code-named “Sun Streak.” I listened to the outline of instruction that would give me the ability to transcend space and time to see persons, places, and things remote in space and time, and to gather and report intelligence information on the same. I remember that as I listened, I heard the words, “Your life will never be the same.” I promise you now that if you will give this course of instruction all that you have in the way of desire, if you will commit to the field of knowledge contained herein, your life will never be the same again, in the most positive and beautiful manner. You will open a door that will change the way you see yourself, others, and this existence.

A great deal of love and consideration goes into the development of a course such as this. It was a massive undertaking by the expert staff at Sounds True to distill a four-day resident course of Remote Viewing instruction into a professional online course of this quality. Ultimately, thousands of joyful hours have been given to this learning tool, and I am certain that you will recognize this fact as you work through this course on your way to becoming a basic-level Coordinate Remote Viewer.

In this course, for these few collective moments, swelling into days and weeks as you study at your own pace, we shall explore human promise and possibility. It will be with this promise and possibility that you will live a life of courage and dignity, always aware of your eternal nature and of the great wisdom you are and have access to. Author Fernando Pessoa once wrote: “This dawn is the first dawn of the world. Never did this pink color, yellowing to a warm white, tinge towards the West the face of the children of the world, whose brilliant eyes gaze upon the silence brought by the glowing light. There was never this hour, nor this light, nor this person that is me, nor this gathering who are this people of spirit and peace. What will be tomorrow, will be something else—and what we see will be seen by transformed eyes—eyes full of a new vision of the world—a vision of love, of compassion, of promise and possibility.”

What will be tomorrow will become something new—and what you will see in this life, in this world, will be seen through reconstructed eyes, through the nonphysical eyes of the Remote Viewer. Your eyes will be full of a new vision of the world—a vision of love, of joy, of compassion, of promise and possibility. Your silent stroll into the Matrix field will soon be a continual conversation, and you will recognize that all of us—beings, buildings, stones, trees, sea, and sky—are a huge family elbowing each other with words in the great procession of destiny.

At times like these, in the eyes of much of the world, the right thing to do would be to never arrive at the human reality for which our lives are destined. Rather, many would ask that you hover imponderably in the fog and the morning, not in spirit, but in a spiritualized body, in winged real life—that is what would most satisfy our desire to seek refuge, although there is no reason to seek one. To feel everything as a Remote Viewer in fine, full detail makes you different; the sensations of your soul, known perhaps all too well by you alone, are still too embryonic for the world to grasp. As a Remote Viewer, you will experience life with behavior congruent with feeling things deeply, encountering passions and emotions that are often lost among more visible kinds of achievement.

You are my hero, you are my dream, and you are the great clarity that the world now needs. So much of the world is no longer able to give meaning to what it sees, though it sees perfectly well what is there. The world needs you to give it clarity. Remote Viewing will bring you clarity, and in so doing, you will transform self, and transformation of self will evolve into a transformation of the collective whole.

Your first task in this program will be to work at looking inward, to find within yourself a place to begin. From this place, you will begin to work methodically to develop a language of purpose, of possibility and direction for yourself. Do not be afraid of the task! It will be difficult and it will ultimately be imperfect. Personally, I will not weep over the imperfect pages in my life; I will only tell you where I feel I can do better. Perfection never materializes—it is not your quest. Only knowledge is your manna, and wisdom your quest. At this level of experience, knowledge begins with self-assessment.

Your friend,

David
